

Language learning, technology and the arts: the power to engage. A professional development for complementary school teachers.

Monday 29th February, 2016

Goldsmiths, University of London (Whitehead Building, Room 404)

*Number 35 on the Goldsmiths Site Map

http://www.gold.ac.uk/media/documents-by-section/about-us/contact/Goldsmiths_site_map.pdf

This one-day event is part of an ongoing collaboration between the Cyprus Educational Mission in the UK and the Department of Educational Studies (Teachers' Centre) at Goldsmiths, University of London

To register please send an email to Laurence Connor, l.connor@gold.ac.uk with completed registration form as soon as possible and by Wednesday 24th February at the latest.

10.00	Coffee
10.15 10.20	Opening Remark (Chryso Charalambous)
10.20- 10.25	Welcome (Mrs Maria Papalouca)
10.25 – 10.50	Plenary: Creative and critical approaches to heritage language learning and teaching (Jim Anderson and Vicky Macleroy)
10.50- 11.00	Learning Greek through science: an interdisciplinary approach British Science Association Award Project 2014 (Marina Charalambidi)
11.00- 11.10	Vocabulary acquisition and the effects of using drama: A case study in the Greek diaspora (Pieridou Myria, and Maria Kambouri)
11.10- 11.30	Close-up On Heritage Language Learners: An Inquiry Learning Project Brit- ish Academy Language Award Project for 2015 (Koula Charitonos, Marina Charalambidi)

11.30	Short break
11.40-12.40	Speaking the music, writing the sound (Maria Yerosimou) The integration of music with other subject areas, and in particular language arts, has shown positive outcomes in achieving non-music aims. This workshop aims at illustrating a number of ways in which aspects of music can assist in heritage language learning processes. Specifically, participants will have the chance to engage with music improvisation and composition activities, as well alternative music notation such as verbal scores.
12.40-13.20	Lunch
	We then move from Whitehead Bldg to Rm 225 in Education Building for Moviemaker session
13.20-14.50	An introduction to Moviemaker live (Yu-Chiao Chung and Graham Salter)
14.50-15.00	Plenary: Building on the session today